The capital of Brazil

Brasília, the capital of Brazil, is a modernist masterpiece and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Founded in 1960, it was designed by renowned architect Oscar Niemeyer and urban planner Lúcio Costa, embodying a vision of innovation and progress. Created to bring development to Brazil's interior, Brasília stands as a symbol of bold architectural ambition.

The city's layout resembles an airplane or a bird, with distinct sectors for government, commerce, and living. At the heart of Brasília lies the Monumental Axis, home to iconic landmarks such as the National Congress, the Planalto Palace, and the Supreme Federal Court. The Cathedral of Brasília, with its stunning glass design, is a must-see for its breathtaking interplay of light and space.

Brasília is also known for its vibrant cultural and natural attractions. The Paranoá Lake, an artificial reservoir, offers opportunities for water sports and leisure, while the city's many green spaces, like the Brasília National Park, provide a peaceful retreat. Visitors can also enjoy the city's excellent selection of cafés and restaurants, where Brazilian and international cuisine come together in innovative and delicious ways.

The city is relatively safe. During the day, the university campus and tourist attractions are peaceful places. However, being careful is always important. Keep your belongings safe and close to you, especially in places like the bus station. Walking with someone is a welcome measure, especially in places you don't know very well yet.

Fun Facts About Brasília

No Street Corners

Brasília's streets were designed without intersections, so you'll have to get used to navigating roundabouts and the city's unique flow.

Lakes and Beaches in the Heart of a City

Though you may associate beaches with coastal cities, Brasília features its own man-made beaches around Lake Paranoá, where locals relax and swim. The sand might not be salty, but it's a refreshing way to cool off! Between June and September, the Na Praia Festival takes place, an event with live shows and activities right by the lake. True to its name, "Na Praia" (On the Beach), it's a popular event. For more information, click here.

It's a City That Runs on Coffee

Brasília is where you'll find Brazil's most serious coffee lovers — it's not uncommon to hear someone talk about their 'coffee break' as a matter of national pride.

Beautiful Sunsets

Brasília is well known for having some of the most beautiful sunsets in Brazil, especially during the month of July.

Supreme Federal Court (!)

The country's Supreme Court is one of the three buildings that compose the Three Powers Square. Its modern façade is complemented by the sculpture A Justiça (Justice), by Alfredo Ceschiatti. Visitors can walk through the Court's main rooms and visit the Museum, which features historical documents and objects and since 2024 hosts an exhibition titled "After January 8th: Reconstruction, Memory, and Democracy," referencing the criminal attack that vandalized public buildings and institutions on January 8, 2023. The exhibit showcases damaged items, fragments resulting from the violence, and other physical traces of the attack.

Catetinho Museum

Known as the "first presidential residence in Brasília," the Catetinho was built in just ten days. The museum preserves objects and documents that tell the story of Brasília's founding. Located in a wooded area, it invites reflection on the early days of the capital.

Palácio da Alvorada

The official residence of the President of the Republic, the Palácio da Alvorada is an iconic example of Niemeyer's modernism. Its wing-shaped columns are a visual landmark of Brasília. Surrounded by gardens designed by Burle Marx, the palace represents the city's beauty.

TV Tower (!)

Standing 224 meters tall, the TV Tower offers a free panoramic view of the city. From its observation deck, visitors can admire Brasília's urban design. At the base of the tower, a craft and local gastronomy fair attracts visitors.

Planetarium of Brasília

The Planetarium of Brasília invites visitors to explore some photos of the universe. With modern projections, it is an educational and fun experience for all ages. Located on the Monumental Axis, it complements the cultural experience of the city's center.

Palácio do Itamaraty (!)

Known as one of the most beautiful buildings in Brasília, the Itamaraty Palace, or the Palace of the Arches, is a masterpiece of modernist architecture. Designed by Oscar Niemeyer, it houses the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and is a symbol of elegance and sophistication. The building is surrounded by reflecting pools and lush gardens, which add to its stunning appearance. The interior features impressive works of art, grand halls, and a breathtaking spiral staircase.

To visit the Itamaraty Palace, reservations are required in advance. Guided tours are available and provide insight into the architectural details and the building's significance. For reservations, you can contact the palace at +55 (61) 2030-8051 or e-mail visita@itamaraty.gov.br. This is a must-see for anyone interested in Brasília's architectural heritage.

Memorial of Indigenous Peoples

Designed by Oscar Niemeyer, the Memorial of Indigenous Peoples honors Brazil's indigenous cultures. The space features exhibitions of artifacts, crafts, and cultural expressions. Its circular architecture resembles traditional huts, creating a symbolic connection with the represented communities.

Pontão do Lago Sul (!)

The place has several restaurants and a privileged view of Lake Paranoá. A great place to meet a group of friends to eat and chat.

National Museum (!)

With its unique shape, the National Museum is one of Brasília's main cultural landmarks. The space hosts temporary exhibitions on art, history, and science. Its privileged location on the Esplanade of Ministries makes it a must-see stop.

SQS 308 SUL - Quadra Modelo, e Igrejinha

The SQS 308 Sul, also known as the "model superblock," offers a fascinating glimpse into life in Brasília's Plano Piloto. It is part of the city's grand design, envisioned by Lúcio Costa and Oscar Niemeyer, who together planned Brasília as a modernist utopia. This superblock exemplifies their unique urban planning vision, aiming to create an ideal lifestyle for its residents. SQS 308 is surrounded by other notable blocks, forming the "quadrilátero modelo": SQS 107, 307, 108, and 308, with each contributing to the understanding of Niemeyer's and Lúcio Costa's vision.

Highlights include the Igrejinha Nossa Senhora de Fátima, a charming chapel designed by Oscar Niemeyer, and the beautiful landscaping of the SQS 308 Sul by Burle Marx. These quadras also feature libraries, schools, and cultural spaces, providing an immersive experience of how Brasília's residents live and interact with their environment. The model superblock is also a subject of study worldwide, celebrated as an exemplary project in architecture and urbanism. It represents a lifestyle considered ideal by its creators, blending residential, social, and cultural elements seamlessly. Exploring these blocks is a must for anyone seeking to understand the harmonious blend of architecture, urban planning, and daily life in the city.

University of Brasília (UnB)

Brief history of the University of Brasília (UnB)

The University of Brasília (UnB) was founded in 1962 by prominent educators Darcy Ribeiro and Anísio Teixeira. Renowned as one of Brazil and Latin America's most distinguished higher education institutions, UnB is celebrated for its cultural diversity and commitment to fostering innovation through its persistent quest for groundbreaking solutions and contributions to scientific research.

It is one of the most prestigious universities in Brazil and also one of the largest among Brazil's public institutions: it has around 2600 professors and 47,000 students enrolled in 136 bachelor's degrees, 86 master's degrees, and 68 doctoral degrees.

The UnB, like other Brazilian public universities, charges no fees to its students. It was the first Brazilian federal university to develop its own race-based affirmative action for the black and indigenous program in 2003 via quotas, which has proven to be remarkably successful over the years.

By providing opportunities for students from historically disadvantaged backgrounds, the program has effectively increased diversity and representation within the university and has served as an inspiring model for other Brazilian public universities.

Darcy Ribeiro Campus Structure

The University of Brasília (UnB) is one of the key landmarks for those seeking to understand the history and culture of Brasília. Founded in 1962, UnB was conceived by Darcy Ribeiro, one of Brazil's most prominent intellectuals, with a revolutionary project for higher education. His vision aimed to integrate teaching, research, and community outreach in innovative ways.

Inspired by progressive ideals, Darcy's plan sought to educate not just skilled professionals but also critical and conscious citizens.

UnB operates across four campuses, with the Darcy Ribeiro University Campus in Asa Norte being the largest and most traditional. Spanning approximately 400 hectares and featuring over 500,000 m<sup>2</sup> of built area, the campus houses iconic buildings such as the Central Institute of Sciences (ICC), the Central Library (BCE), and the Faculty of Law (FD).

Renowned architect Oscar Niemeyer played a central role in designing this campus, making it a hallmark of modern Brazilian architecture. Its structures, characterized by Niemeyer's signature curved lines and expansive spaces, were designed to promote interaction and the exchange of ideas among students, professors, and researchers.

Architectural highlights include the Central Institute of Sciences, commonly known as "Minhocão," a monumental structure that combines vast scale with practical functionality, and the Darcy Ribeiro Memorial, which celebrates the founder's enduring legacy.

The University's history is also marked by periods of turmoil, particularly during Brazil's military dictatorship (1964-1985). Following the 1964 coup, UnB became a target of intense repression.

Professors and students were persecuted, imprisoned, and exiled, turning the institution into a symbol of intellectual resistance against the authoritarian regime. Direct attacks, such as military invasions of the campus, are part of its collective memory, underscoring the courage and resilience of its academic community.

Today, UnB remains a hub of academic and cultural excellence, attracting students from across Brazil and the globe. A visit to its campuses offers an opportunity to explore not only its unique architecture but also to connect with an institution that embodies the living history of education and resistance in Brazil.

The Law School

The current Law School building, designed by architect Matheus Gorovitz, was inaugurated on April 22, 1982.

UnB Graduate Program in Law (with PhD and Master's degrees) stands among the three highest-ranked schools in the country according to the Brazilian public evaluation system conducted by the Ministry of Education.

PLAN YOUR TIME IN BRASÍLIA

Transport information

For personal transportation, we recommend that you use a transport app, such as Uber, 99, or similar apps. These apps work very well in Brasília, being used daily by many people in the capital. The option is safe and affordable. Before confirming any trip, make sure you are going to the correct location and try to be as specific as possible when entering a destination address.

For example, when you are going to the University of Brasília, make sure you are going to the correct building on the Darcy Ribeiro Campus. The University of Brasília has four campuses and they are all far from each other.

Distance from the Airport to the UnB

The Brasília International Airport (Presidente Juscelino Kubitschek Airport) is located approximately 15 kilometers (9 miles) from the University of Brasília (UnB). Depending on traffic, the journey typically takes 20 to 30 minutes by car.

The easiest and most convenient way to travel from the airport to the university is by using a ride-sharing app such as Uber or 99, which are affordable and widely available. Alternatively, you can opt for a taxi, which is readily available at the airport.

Please note that there is a designated Uber pickup location at the airport, situated in front of the main building. To find it, walk as if you were leaving the airport, cross the pedestrian crossing, and you will arrive at the designated area.

While at the airport, you may encounter drivers offering trips, but it is important to never accept these offers. Always book your ride through the Uber app and head directly to the designated pickup location.

An Uber ride in Brasília has the following estimated costs, varying due to exchange rates, traffic conditions, and Uber's dynamic pricing:

- From Brasília Airport (BSB) to the Law School at UnB
  - Approximately R$65 ($13)
- From Brasília Airport to the Setor Hoteleiro Norte
  - Approximately R$50 ($10)
- From Brasília Airport to the Setor Hoteleiro Sul
  - Approximately R$50 ($10)
- From Setor Hoteleiro Norte to the Law School at UnB
  - Approximately R$25 ($5)
- From Setor Hoteleiro Sul to the Law School at UnB
  - Approximately R$25 ($5)

Getting Around

The University of Brasilia Campus is located in the heart of Asa Norte, one of Brasilia's most charming neighborhoods.

Navigating Brasília can be straightforward with the right information.

While on campus, walking is a convenient way to get around. The University of Brasília (UnB) has a spacious, pedestrian-friendly layout, making it easy to reach your destination on foot. However, the campus is large and it is worth checking the distance first.

For more information about walking around the University of Brasília (UnB), please refer to this guide.

When traveling outside the university, we recommend using Uber. While there are public buses available, they are not the most comfortable option for visitors unfamiliar with the city. For those who choose this option, several lines of buses go to the Darcy Ribeiro campus:

- Linha 0.110 - Plano Piloto Bus Station/UnB
- Linha 110.2 - Plano Piloto Bus Station/ UnB
- Linha 0.116 - Plano Piloto Bus Station/ W3-L2 Norte

You can find more details about these routes here.

We also recommend the bus app, Moovit.

Brasília has a subway system that operates in the southern parts of the city. However, it does not extend to Asa Norte, where the University of Brasília (UnB) is located.

Ride-share apps are a popular and affordable means of transportation in Brazil.

Uber is widely used and offers accessible rates, but other apps like 99 app and local taxis are also good alternatives. To ensure a smooth experience, it's advisable to confirm your ride details before getting in the car.

EXPERIENCE IT LIKE A LOCAL

Language

The official language of Brazil is Portuguese. While some locals in Brasília may understand basic English and Spanish, especially in tourist areas and universities, fluency in English or Spanish is not widespread. It's a good idea to learn a few key phrases in Portuguese or use a translation app for smoother communication. Signs and menus are usually in Portuguese, so familiarity with the language will enhance your experience.

Essential Phrases for Getting Around in Brazil

Hello

Oi (O-ee)
Olá (Oh-lah)

Good morning

Bom dia (Bohm jee-ah)

Good afternoon

Boa tarde (Boh-ah tar-jee)

Good night

Boa noite (Boh-ah noh-ee-chee)

Thank you

In Portuguese, "thank you" is gendered:

- Women say Obrigada (Oh-bree-gah-dah).
- Men say Obrigado (Oh-bree-gah-doh).

For those who prefer gender-inclusive language, you can use Obrigade (Oh-bree-gah-deh).

All three expressions convey gratitude, translating to "obliged," as in "I'm obliged to return this favor."

You're welcome

De nada (Deh nah-dah)

Please

Por favor (Poor fah-vohr)

Excuse me

Com licença (Kohn lee-sehn-sah)

Sorry

Desculpe (Dehs-kool-peh)

How much does it cost?

Quanto custa? (Kwan-too koos-tah)

I don't understand

Eu não entendo. (Ew now en-ten-doh)

Do you speak English?

Can you help me?

Você pode me ajudar? (Vo-seh poh-jee meh ah-joo-dar?)

Cheers!

Saúde! (Sah-oo-jee)
(Used when toasting drinks; it literally means "health.")

Currency and Money

Brazil's currency is the Brazilian Real (BRL), symbolized as R$. Credit and debit cards are widely accepted in most establishments, but it's a good idea to carry some cash for smaller vendors or street markets. ATMs are available throughout Brasília.

When exchanging money, stick to official exchange bureaus or banks for better security.

Time

Brasília operates on Brasília Time (BRT), which is UTC -3. Currently, there is no daylight saving time in Brazil, so the time remains constant throughout the year.

Keep in mind that shops, restaurants, and public offices may have specific operating hours, so plan ahead to avoid inconvenience. Typically, shops operate from 9 AM to 7 PM on weekdays and 9 AM to 1 PM on Saturdays, while restaurants usually open from 11 AM to 11 PM. Public offices often function from 8 AM to 6 PM, Monday through Friday.

Weather

The biome in Brasilia is known as "Cerrado". It is a vast tropical savanna ecoregion of Brazil. The yearly average temperature in Brasilia is 20.5°C (69 °F).

Brasília has a dry season and a rainy season. The dry season is from May to September. During the dry season, the weather cools down. The coldest month is July, with temperatures ranging from 18°C to 25°C and minimal chances of rain. However, midday can still feel quite warm.

Electricity (110v/220v)

In Brazil, the standard electricity voltage varies depending on the region. The two most common voltages are 110V and 220V, and they are not standardized across the country. For example, Brasília operates on 220V, while São Paulo typically uses 110V. It's essential to check your devices and chargers before plugging them in to avoid damage.

Most modern electronic devices, such as smartphones and laptops, are dual voltage (100V–240V), which makes them compatible with both systems. However, for single-voltage appliances like hair dryers or curling irons, you may need a voltage converter or transformer. It's also worth noting that power outlets in Brazil typically accept Type N plugs. If your device uses a different plug type, you'll need an adapter.

For safety, always verify the voltage and outlet compatibility before use.

Tipping

In restaurants, a 10% service charge is often included in the bill, so additional tipping is optional. If the service charge is not included, leaving a tip of around 10% is appreciated, but it's not required.

In taxis, rounding up the fare is common, but tipping is not mandatory.

For hotel staff, such as bellhops or housekeeping, a small tip of R$20 to R$30 is generally sufficient.

While tipping is not obligatory in Brazil, it is a nice way to acknowledge good service and is not considered offensive if you choose to leave one.

Drinking Water in Brasília

In Brasília, tap water is generally safe to drink. However, it's not common for Brazilians to drink water directly from the tap, and many prefer bottled water.

In restaurants, the option "Água da Casa" typically refers to filtered water provided by the establishment, ensuring its quality and safety for customers. If you prefer, bottled water is widely available throughout the city. For those staying in hotels or accommodations, it's common to find filtered water available as well.

What to do in an emergency

If you are in an emergency situation, please note the contact details below:

- Police: 190
- Fire Department: 193
- Emergency Medical Care Service: 192
- Emergencies in general: 112 and 911 (numbers also adopted in Brazil to facilitate foreigners contacting emergency services).

For urgent medical attention, head to one of Brasília's main hospitals.

In Brazil, all medical care provided at public hospitals is free of charge, including outpatient consultations, emergency services, and hospital stays. Ambulance services, such as those offered by Samu (Dial 192), are also completely free of charge and available for emergencies. This free care is available not only to Brazilian citizens but also to foreign visitors.

The recommended public hospital options near the Plano Piloto area are:

- Hospital Universitário de Brasília (HUB): 605 Norte
- Hospital Regional de Asa Norte (HRAN): 101 Norte
- Hospital Sector - North: 516 Norte
- Hospital Sector - South: 716 Sul
- Base Hospital: 101 Sul

However, for those who prefer private healthcare, excellent options are available, such as Hospital Sírio-Libanês (SGAS II SGAS 613 s/n Lote 94 - Asa Sul) and DF Star (SHLS 716 Bloco D - Asa Sul).

To access private hospitals, visitors will either need to have pre-existing health insurance or pay for services directly.

Some Precautions

Be Mindful of Your Belongings

Brasília, São Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, like many large cities, has areas where petty theft can occur, especially in crowded places like public transportation, markets, and tourist attractions. Keep your valuables, such as wallets and cameras, secure and avoid displaying expensive items openly.

Stay Alert with Your Phone

Mobile phones are a common target for pickpockets and opportunistic theft. Use your phone discreetly, especially when walking on the street or waiting in public areas. Consider stepping into a café or shop if you need to use your phone for navigation or messaging.
